ADDICTION RECOVERY CENTRE

WELCOME

Our House Addiction Recovery Centre is pleased to announce the start of a new Executive Director, Kim Clark.

Kim Clark is an unwavering advocate for the safety and well-being of vulnerable persons. Recognizing a personal affinity for planning, Kim pursued schooling in the travel sector before transitioning into the justice system through court reporting. Kim spent her first professional decade working in a variety of managerial settings with a focus on human resources. Kim's passion for the non-profit sector began over twelve years ago in a chance meeting with the Zebra Child Protection Centre while organizing a corporate event.

As an integral member within the Executive Leadership team at Canada's first Child Advocacy Centre, Kim has been involved in and taken the lead on numerous key projects including the re-structure of a mental health program to allow better trauma therapy access for children, youth and caregivers. Wellness and balance are important cornerstones for Kim who had a key role in bringing a revolutionary Western Canadian Wellness Conference to our city for multiple years.

KIM CLARK

After nearly a decade with the Zebra Child Protection Centre, Kim has transitioned to the role of Executive Director of Our House Addiction Recovery Centre. This is a natural landing point for Kim and something that dovetails beautifully with her strengths and experience. Our House Addiction Recovery Centre offers programming and services unlike any other in Alberta and is one of the few one-year residential addiction recovery program offered to adult men in Canada. Kim is looking forward being able to support clients and staff with a compassionate, trauma-informed lens while enhancing the profile of the remarkable work that happens here by an incredibly dedicated group of staff and volunteers.
